O.N.E – THE PRINCIPALS’ CONCLAVE - 2017

Join to UNLOCK the power of O.N.E

O.N.E is a one-day leadership conference that is centred on three themes:

Organizing, Networking and Empowering.

O.N.E – THE PRINCIPALS’ CONCLAVE seeks to focus on leadership that lasts. What if you could construct a program, initiative, relationship, facility, procedure or even a culture that lived beyond your presence or involvement? You can! Sustainable Leaders are Aware, Deliberate, Grounded, Collaborative, Organized and pay attention to their “wants, needs and haves”.

Talks, Presentations, Activities and Educational sessions... allow Leaders to reflect on their leadership understanding and provide them with opportunities to advance skills to apply on campus and in future-life experiences.

Get inspired to have a lasting impact on your campus — apply the concepts of sustainability to leadership and ground yourself and your team in shared vision, shared credit and shared results.

Ms. Sanjana Kapoor, Daughter of the Legendary Jennifer Kendal and Shashi Kapoor, Sanjana has Theatre and Arts in her DNA so she hardly needs an introduction. Sanjana Kapoor, co-founder of Junoon, spearheads the Arts at Play for Schools programme, loves the sheer energy and excitement of the arts and is brilliant at curating this for eager audiences. With her indefatigable energy, she is to be found everywhere across India, making connections for the arts, and exhorting everyone to take the arts seriously as part of their lives. She also instigated the creation of the India Theatre Forum (ITF) in 2006, and remains part of the ITF core team. She is a core team member and facilitator for SMART - Strategic Management in the Art of Theatre. Many of you will remember her for building Prithvi Theatre into a warm, inviting cultural hub (1989-2012), some of you will remember her for her earnest Amul India Show questioning (1995-1998), and some of you apparently loved her in Hero Hiralal (1988) - a confession which never fails to embarrass her. She believes in multi-tasking, and will one day possibly achieve being in multiple places at once - so that she can always be with theatre and always be with her son at one and the same time. SCHOOL PRINCIPALS FROM THE CITY CAME TOGETHER TO TALK ABOUT AN IMPORTANT ISSUE

SASHIDHAR ADIVI

DECCAN CHRONICLE

After the recent drug bust that rattled the city last month, the Hyderabad Sahodaya Schools Complex (HSSC) held a panel discussion on 'Substance abuse — causes, concerns and corrections' on Friday.

Akun Sabharwal, who is heading the Special Investigation Team that is looking into the drug racket, was the Chief Guest at the event and started his address by recalling an incident. "The other day when I was trying to educate my son about 'substance abuse', he quickly retorted, 'Papa, I know you are talking about drugs'. So that just goes to show the awareness and buzz around the ongoing drugs case," he said.

The panel also had Usha Reddy, Principal of Meridian School and Dr Vyakarnam Nageshwar, pulmonologist, who further discussed the changes and implications in drug-affected children.

The HSSC's panel discussion saw people talk about raising awareness and finding solutions to drugs problem that surfaced in recent times said, "They were called under Section 67 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psycho-tropic Substances Act, 1985. We didn't revealed any names, and it was only when they were called that it became public."

Dr Vyakarnam Nageshwar enlightened the conclave with his talk on how parents can identify and treat children who are into drugs, how the body reacts and the behavioural changes. Sanjana Kapoor, the daughter of Shashi Kapoor was also present and explained the importance of creativity and how it can help children to learn constantly. The conclave also had a session on creativity in education, digital learning, managing lessons of life, patriotism through education, etc. Anjali Razdan, Vice-Chairman of HSSC and Principal of P. Obul Reddy Public School was also present.

To a question about dealing with students (drug victim) who are denied admission into schools, Akun replied, "This is why we didn't reveal names of schools and children (although the media did) on any public forum. We don't want anyone calling themselves a drug-free school. Parents and teachers should empathise with kids."

Hyderabad: Conducting rallies with placards will not resolve drug abuse in schools, but holding discussions with students will have a positive impact, said Akun Sabharwal, director (prohibition and excise enforcement) at the Hyderabad CBSE school principals' annual conclave on Friday.

Addressing the conclave, Sabharwal, who is heading the special investigation team in the drug scandal, urged school principals to create awareness among students by holding discussions. "Although the drug racket created immense awareness among people, two basic issues need to be tackled by school principals—preventing entry and preventing use of drugs. Students spend seven hours in school/college and therefore teachers can bring in the change by observing their behaviour," said Sabharwal.

He further urged principals to shun drugs and not addicts. "There should be a fine balance between punishment and reforms. Schools should take care of children with reform based ideologies," said Sabharwal. During the conclave, he also broke various myths related to substance abuse among students. "It is a myth that one cannot get addicted by using the drug just once. It is also incorrect that only disturbed children or those from affluent families are addicted to substance abuse," said Sabharwal, adding that increasing use of technology among students has led to demand and supply of drugs in the city.

Sharing his experiences with parents, Sabharwal said that many of them were in denial when informed about their ward's addiction. "Today, students are on various WhatsApp groups. That does not mean every student is an addict. Parents must accept that their children exist in a list where

WHAT SCHOOLS MUST DO

➤ Counsel students, parents

➤ Ban smartphones,

➤ Identify when a student is behaving unusually or is disturbed

➤ Form teams comprising students to report when a child is taking drugs

➤ Introduce chapters on ill effects of alcohol, drugs

A toll free number (1800 425 2523) is being publicised so citizens, parents, teachers, students who have any information regarding use of drugs can pass it on. Names and identities will be protected are not supposed to,” said Sabharwal. Agreeing to Sabharwal's observations, Usha Reddy, chairman of Meridian Schools said that teachers and the school management must monitor children more closely to identify those with changing behavioural patterns.

The conclave, organised by the Hyderabad Sahodaya Schools Complex, was attended by over 150 principals of CBSE affiliated schools. The theme for the day-long conclave is ONE (organising, networking and empowering). Discussions were also held on creativity, digital learning, managing life lessons, future schools, value of language assessment and patriotism through education.
